COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The night officer, Oakley Godwin, has resigned his job because of his health. He has given a two week notice and has agreed to stay on a little longer if he is needed. The night officer's job is a thankless one. Many people are ready to criticize a night officer but few people are willing to assist him. The critics stand back and say that the solutions to all of the problems can be solved by a certain course of action. At the same time there are people who frown on that course of action and they think that something else should be done. If we just look back to the town meeting last month, the arguments were long and loud for a curfew. The arguments were also long and loud against a curfew. The curfew article at town meeting is the only open discussion that I know of about that subject. I do not know exactly how a night officer would interpret the results or meaning of the vote. I do know that certain of his actions will be praised by some while the same actions are criticized by others.

The town purchased a new three inch diaphragm pump this last week. A pump is a piece of equipment that isn't used very often but it should be ready to operate when needed. The old pump worked about half the time and half the time it didn't. It is impossible to see and repair anything under a foot or so of muddy water. A diaphragm pump will not lose its suction when the strainer is taken out of the water or cleaned. It will prime itself when the strainer is put back in the water. The new pump was badly needed and I believe it will pay for itself in a short time.

The assessing work has begun on some of the 1965 valuations but it is still not too late to file a declaration if you have not already done so. Filing will assist the assessors and you will be taxed for the proper amount when the tax bills come out.
